Warns Of World Effect Of U.S. Racialism

A warning that Asians were skeptical of the intentions and democratic claims of the West because of the "persistent racialism in some parts of the United States" was given by Dr. Maurice L. Perlzweig, the World Jewish Congress' consultant to the United Nations, who recently returned from India and Southeast Asia. Dr. Perlzweig noted that this skepticism was attributed also to "the apparent indifference of American public opinion to violations of the human rights embodied in the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution."

He spoke before 200 leaders at a two-day meeting of the administrative and executive committees of the American Jewish Congress at the Stephen Wise Congress House, 15 East Eighty-fourth Street, New York.

Asserting that the struggle to safeguard civil rights and equality in the United States is of "immense importance" to the success of American foreign policy, Dr. Perlzweig declared that "whoever battles for the triumph of genuine Americanism in America is at the same time making a vital contribution in the battle for the soul of the world."

He stressed that the bombing incidents in Florida "wiped out many months of devoted work by United States representatives laboring under difficult conditions to convince the millions of Asian people that America is the protagonist of justice and freedom."

"This defiance of Americanism in America," he said, "has been and is being exploited by every hostile force, and its extent and significance is exaggerated by every means available to an immense propaganda machine, and

Nazism Does Not Alarm Germans

Only 20 per cent of the Germans questioned in the recent survey of the United States High Commissioner's office would do everything possible to prevent the rise to power of a neo-Nazi party, John J. McCloy, United States High Commissioner, said at Bonn, Germany. This figure and several others regarded by some observers as measures of the Federal Republic's progress in democracy were announced by Mr. McCloy in a speech at the University of Freiburg in the French zone.

The major target of Mr. McCloy's address was German political apathy toward extremist movements. To demonstrate the extent of this situation the High Commissioner cited figures that indicate that despite the claims of his Office of Public Affairs political progress in Germany remains remarkably slow.

The High Commissioner took comfort in the fact that only 13 per cent of those polled on one question would support a neo-Nazi party or movement. A French observer was less reassured by the figure and pointed out that "historically" it took much less than 13 per cent of the population to make a revolution.

Discussing what he called "the real danger * * * the apathy of millions of men and women in this country, in their failure to recognize that they must act in defense of their own liberties," Mr. McCloy said that 87 per cent of those questioned had said they would not support a neo-Nazi party.

Against this encouraging result, the high commissioner set answers to a second question. This was: If a new party similar to the National Socialist party should try to come to power in the Federal Republic, what would be your attitude toward it?

The survey found that only 20

Leave Seats To Protest Iraqi Hangings

Members of the Israel Delegation in Paris left their seats in all committees of the General Assembly of the United Nations as an expression of grief after the public hanging by Iraq of two Jews accused of belonging to an alleged Zionist underground. Ambassador Abba S. Eban made the following statement to the Ad Hoc Political Committee in explanation of the action of the Israel Delegation:

"The Israel Delegation wishes to explain why it will not participate in this meeting. A week ago Israel addressed an urgent appeal to the President of the General Assembly to intercede with the Iraq Government in the interests of humanity and regional harmony to spare the lives of the two Jews who had been condemned to death. The President of the General Assembly responded to this appeal and requested the head of the Iraqi Delegation to convey the representations of Israel to the Government of Iraq. On several subsequent occasions the President of the General Assembly informed me that the head of the Iraqi Delegation promised to convey the reply of his Government.

"The United Nations received its reply when these two Jews were hanged in the Baghdad public square. They had previously been subjected for many weeks to barbaric acts of torture. The Committee will note the manner in which the mediation of the President of the General Assembly has been treated. It will also note that the executions were carried out in such a manner as to ensure the public degradation of human dignity. As an expression of grief and protest against this revolting action, Israel will now withdraw from this meeting and leave its seat empty. Israel will not take part in any meetings of the United Nations today."

The same statement was made in the Third Committee by Emile Najar in French. Mr. Eban in addition sent the following letter to the President of the General Assembly, Dr. Luis Padilla Nervo, after leaving the meeting: "I write to express my Government's appreciation of your action in conveying to the Government of Iraq the representations of my Government on the question of the two young Jews sentenced to death in Iraq on political grounds. You will recall that the representative of Iraq promised to acquaint you with any further developments in this question and gave you to understand that there were further stages of procedure to be exhausted before any decisive action was taken. You can well imagine, therefore, that we were deeply surprised to receive the news of the execution carried out in public in Baghdad without the Iraqi representative making any communication to yourself. While I am grieved and shocked at this outcome, I venture to believe that your efforts in the interests of clemency and humanitarianism were in the highest tradition of your presidential office, of your country and of your person."

Following is the text of Mr. Eban's letter to the President of the General Assembly, in response to which Mr. Nervo had intervened with the Government of Iraq:

"On behalf of the Government of Israel I have the honour to request Your Excellency's intervention in a matter involving humanitarian consideration and having a direct bearing on the maintenance of peaceful relations in the Middle East.

"On 5 November 1951 the Second High Court in Baghdad passed the death sentence on Shalom Saleh Shalom and Yusuf Ibrahim Basri for alleged offences, not involving the loss of human life. It was stated that the two accused carried out crimes against Iraqi law at Israel's instigation. My Government is fully convinced of the groundless character of these charges. However, the object of this present communication to Your Excellency does not relate to the substance of the charges or trials but to the question of clemency. The Government of Israel in its capacity as a member of the United Nations solemnly requests you as President of the General Assembly to make representations to the Government of Iraq in an effort to secure commutation of this penalty.

"In this connection I would point out that in all cases where Arab residents of Israel have been brought before the Courts on capital offences, whether involving subversive activities against the State or criminal assaults, the death sentence has not been applied. Either the Courts have imposed a lesser sentence, or the President has exercised his prerogative of commutation. In taking this course the State of Israel has been moved both by considerations of humanity and by a desire to avoid any exacerbation of inter-state and inter-communal antagonisms through the Middle East, in its present state of tension. Moreover, the two accused men are members of a community, the greater part of which has now migrated to Israel. For this reason, as well as on general grounds, this matter engages the deep concern of Israel public opinion.

Unrest Imperils Jews In Tunisia

More than 100,000 Jews in Tunisia are imperiled by political unrest now sweeping that country, Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, warned in New York. Reports received from Agency emissaries in Tunisia "leave no doubt as to the urgency of the situation" and plans for "accelerating the immigration of Tunisian Jews are now being drawn up by the Jewish Agency," Dr. Goldmann announced.

Even before the recent outbreak of tensions between the Arabs and the French, Dr. Goldmann said, the Jews of Tunisia had been on the "critical list of Jewish communities whose present plight and uncertain future entitle them to high priority among those being moved to Israel." The Jewish Agency, which is in charge of the mass transfer of immigrants to Israel, had originally planned to move Tunisian Jews at a more gradual pace.

The Israel Government only recently adopted an immigration policy looking toward an "even flow of immigration in 1952 and succeeding years," Dr. Goldmann said. Under this policy, "the tide of unrestricted immigration, including the aged, poor and incurably ill from danger zones, was to be balanced by more robust, well-trained immigrants from secure areas, men and women with a bent for pioneering." The increase of danger zones may adversely effect this desired balance, he said.

This new emergency places greater obligations on U.S. Jewry which, through the United Jewish Appeal, has supplied the financial means that have enabled the Jewish Agency for Palestine to discharge its tasks of colonization and immigration in Israel, making it possible for that country to double its population within the past three years. The cost of bringing an average immigrant family of five to Israel and absorbing them in the nation's agricultural economy is roughly about $2500. This figure includes all expenses, from initial preparations in the immigrants' country of origin to their permanent rooting on the soil of Israel.

In discussing the situation of Tunisian Jews, Dr. Goldmann cautiously refrained from casting blame on any quarter. "Nonetheless," he said, "it is evident that nationalism in this intensely Moslem country is accompanied not necessarily by deliberate design of its leadership, but almost automatically, as it were, by fear of non-Moslems and by mounting religious bigotry." He warned that "recent rioting, pilfering, and demolition of Jewish premises in Tunisian provinces is an augury of things to come."

The Jewish community of Tunisia numbers about 100,000 out of a general population of three-and-a-quarter million. About 65,000 are concentrated in Tunis, the capital city, while the remaining 35,000 live in small towns, villages and rural areas. Since 1881 Jews have been citizens of Tunis, subjects of the Bey. Theoretically they are on an equal footing with the Moslems, but are not permitted to hold high judicial or governmental office. About 32 per cent of Tunisian Jews are engaged in commerce, mainly as small shopkeepers; about 26 per cent are in industry and handicrafts and 15 per cent in the liberal professions.

Up to now there has been a marked distinction between the situation of Jews in the city of Tunis and those in the rest of the Protectorate of Tunisia. Jews in the capital have been not only formally but materially equal to the Moslems and, so far, have been immune from racial violence and discrimination. In the rest of Tunisia where they comprise small islands in a Moslem sea, the Jews suffer from severe economic discrimination and live in constant fear of attack and robbery by their neighbors.

Israeli Scholar In N.Y. Finds 20 Medieval Books Among Fragments

Twenty medieval books known previously only by name have been discovered, it was announced in New York at the Jewish Theological Seminary, Broadway and 122d Street, where scholars said their find would shed considerable light on the habits and customs of 1,000 years ago in Babylonia and Spain. Discovery was made by Dr. Shraga Abramson, who came to the U.S. a year ago from Israel. A thirty-seven-year-old Talmudic teacher at the seminary, Dr. Abramson also teaches medieval Jewish poetry there.

In describing his literary wanderings to the New York Herald Tribune, he was somewhat diffident and depended greatly upon Dr. Alexander Marx, director of libraries at the seminary, to answer direct questions. Dr. Marx, a jovial scholar with Yankee chin whiskers, was not diffident at all.

The books were identified from two bags of fragments, Dr. Marx explained, that had been bought by the seminary in 1923 from the library of the late Dr. Elkan Adler. These fragments, he said, totaled about 15,000 and were taken in 1896 from the genizah of a Cairo synagogue. This geniash was a hiding place, tomb-like, with only a trapdoor for entrance, into which for more than 1,000 years worn-out volumes were thrown by rabbis.

Such a literary treasure house, Dr. Marx said, came because of the Jewish law against destruction of any book bearing upon sacred matters. Although Dr. Marx and a number of others had these fragments bound—necessarily by size rather than subject matter—and browsed among them with interest for a number of years, it was not until Dr. Abramson came on the scene with a knowledge not only of Arabic but of ancient Arabic, including the Babylonian dialect of that language, that any real inroad was made into their content.

Dr. Abramson discovered the Seminary owned a number of leaves from books by Rab Saadia Gaon—Rab is the equivalent of rabbi and Gaon meant that he was director of the Hebrew Academy at Sura in Babylonia—and fragments of hitherto unsuspected works by Rab Samuel ben Hofni, an eleventh-century successor of Rab Saadia.

In addition, Dr. Abramson iden-

IN MEMORIAM

WHITE: In fond and loving memory of a dearly beloved wife and mother, Faigel, who passed away 11 days in Shevat 1951.

A silent thought, a secret tear,
Keeps her memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.

Lovingly remembered by her husband, children, and grandchildren.

DEATHS

Mrs. Mary (Mucha) Zukofsky Diamond, 5304 Park Avenue, widow of the late Simon Zukofsky Diamond, died on Thursday, January 31, in her one hundred and third year. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. John Duchow (Molly); Mrs. A. Massey (Ida Mae); Mrs. S. Milnis (Sarah), of North Bergen, New Jersey; a son, Harry; twelve grandchildren; and twenty-four great-grandchildren. Funeral service took place from Paperman's. Burial was in Bnai Jacob cemetery, Back River. Shiva was at the home of a daughter, Mrs. John Duchow, 5304 Park Avenue. Mrs. Diamond was born on St. Valentine's Day, in 1848, in a small farm village in Minsk, White Russia, and came to Canada in 1908. Mrs. Diamond lived in Montreal from 1908 until her death. Active until very recently, she has made a number of beautiful quilts for donation to hospitals. One was given to the Jewish Hospital at Prefontaine and enabled the hospital to raise $2,000. Another brought in $1,500 for the Jewish Hospital of Hope. She left instructions that two quilts made recently should be raffled in the same way to raise money for hospitals. Mrs. Diamond's 100th birthday, three years ago, saw gathered around her, her four surviving children, twelve grandchildren, and twenty-four great-grandchildren. At that time, her advice for longevity was to learn to take it easy and do what individuals wanted to do, when they wanted to do it. Until she became ill some months ago, Mrs. Diamond would sometimes sit up late at night knitting, sewing or reading. Her reading included everything from the advice-to-lovelorn columns of newspapers to Tolstoi. Each of her quilts consisted of hundreds of separate pieces, sewn together carefully by hand. She managed to provide every member of her four-generation family with patch-work cushion covers and more. Mrs. Diamond took great pride in her family and in her own grooming. Her white, silky hair was always carefully brushed and combed and she remained independent until she became ill three months ago. Mrs. Diamond always claimed that one of the big secrets of her longevity was, "I've lived all my life without having one enemy. I've peace with everyone." Mrs. Diamond would sometimes reminisce about the conscription forces of the Czar's army which would frighten every male villager over 12. She remembered, too, persecutions that drove her and her husband, Sam Diamond, to the new world in 1908. Mrs. Diamond arrived in New York first and a few months later moved to Montreal to spend the remainder of her long life.

Percy Nathaniel Jacobson, 635 Grosvenor Avenue, aged sixty-five, died on Tuesday, January 29, at the Ross Memorial Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital after a brief illness. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. May Silver Jacobson; two daughters, Mrs. John Lowbeer (Edith), of St. Lambert; Mrs. David Kwass (Janet), of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; and four grandchildren. He was the father of the late Joseph and Peter Jacobson. Burial was in Mount Royal cemetery. Mr. Jacobson was president of Office Equipment Company of Canada. He was a past president of Neighborhood House, and of Jewish Vocational Service; a member of the board of trustees of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies; a past president of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Authors' Association, and was well-known in playwriting and amateur theatrical circles. He was on the executive of the national C.A.A. and was a member of the International P.E.N. Society and a member of the executive of the Canadian branch of the P.E.N. He gave a scholarship to McGill University in memory of his son, Joseph, who was killed overseas with the R.C.A.F. in World War II. Dr. H. J. Stern, Rabbi, of Temple Emanu-El, said at the service that his death "can be compared to an unfinished symphony" because a benefactor of society like Mr. Jacobson "never lives long enough."

Abraham Leavitt, 5549 Queen Mary Road, died in his eighty-seventh year, on Sunday, January 26, at his home. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rose Cohen Leavitt; three sons, Mendel and Harold; Joseph, of Vancouver, B. C.; three daughters, Mrs. Jacob Kopstein (Riva), of South Orange, N. J.; Mrs. E. Goldwater (Theresa); Mrs. L. King (Freda); and three grandchildren, Roland King, of St. Paul, Minn.; and Rosalind and Roger Kopstein, of South Orange. Rabbi Wilfred Shuchat conducted funeral services at Paperman's. Burial was in Shaar Hashomayim Cemetery. Shiva was observed at the home.

Lyon H. Pitt (Pistreich) formerly of Montreal, died on January 22, in Sarasota, Florida, after a lengthy illness. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Ager Pitt; a son, Lewis; four brothers, Sam and Frank, both of Montreal; Adolphe and Max, both of Detroit, Mich.; and a sister, Mrs. J. Rosenzveig (Amelia), of Montreal. Funeral and burial services were in Sarasota. Shiva was at the home of the sister, Mrs. J. Rosenzveig, 839 McEachran Avenue.

MARRIAGES

WINRICH-KARLS

The marriage of Hedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Karls, 4243 Esplanade Avenue, to Jack Winrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Winrich, 229 Stanton Street, New York, took place by candlelight on December 30, at Bnai Jacob Synagogue, at seven o'clock. Dr. C. N. Denburg, Rabbi; Rabbi F. Hirschprung, Reverend J. Rosenzweig, and Reverend A. Greenberg officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in white brocaded taffeta, cut with a low sweetheart neckline which buttoned to the waist, with long sleeves, a tight-fitted bodice, and a hoop skirt ending in a long train. Her pearl-beaded crown was arranged with a long tulle illusion veil, and she carried a white and gold Bible with lilies, white satin streamers, and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. I. Stern, sister of the groom, as matron of honor, wore a floor-length princess gown of blue lace, a matching jacket, and crown. She had a Colonial bouquet of pink roses, with streamers to match. Cicky and Caroline Ruvinsky, cousins of the bride, as flower girls, wore identical dresses of pink satin, trimmed with powder-blue, and flowered crowns to match their Colonial bouquets. Benny Karls, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were William Namerow, Lee Goldstein, Richard Kert, Hyman Dajczman, Seymour Garber, and Ludy Karls, brother of the bride. Michael Stern, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. Variegated flowers, plants, and white satin ribbon decorated the synagogue and aisles. Mrs. Karls, mother of the bride, received in a long-sleeved gown of beige lace over copper-tone satin, with feather-trimmed matching hat and corsage of Tea roses. Mrs. Winrich, mother of the groom, wore a black tissue faille floor-length gown, trimmed with turquoise-blue print on collar and cuffs, and a corsage of deep red roses. The bride and groom left for New York, Atlantic City, N. J., and Miami, Florida, the bride travelling in a blue gabardine suit, with a lace blouse, a white velvet hat, trimmed with a navy-blue feather and veil, blue accessories, and a grey Persian lamb coat with an orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Winrich will reside in New York. Wedding guests were: Miss Ellen Korne, Moe Sterman, George and Issie Winrich, all of New York.

PHILLIPS-SINGER

The marriage of Jeannette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Singer, 4123 de Bullion Street, to Bernard Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips, 4888 Jeanne Mance Street, took place on November 17, at Chevra Kadisha Synagogue, at half-past six o'clock in the evening. Rabbi M. Lieff and Reverend A. Kenner officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a floor-length gown of white lace over taffeta and net. It had a standing collar, long, tight sleeves, coming to points at the wrists, a tight-fitted bodice, and a very full skirt of lace with a small lace train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a net bonnet, and she carried a fan of white carnations and white net. Miss Jacqueline Grostern, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, wore an off-the-shoulder floor-length gown of multi-blue net, made with a tight-fitted bodice and overskirts of the net. She had a picture hat of multi-blue net and carried American Beauty roses. Rhona Dorothy Phillips, niece of the groom, as flower girl, wore a floor-length dress of baby-blue organdy, made with a Peter Pan collar, puffed sleeves, an embroidered bodice, and a bouffant skirt. She had a pastel floral crown, with matching nosegay and ribbon. Irving Phillips, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were: Larry Phillips, of Toronto, Ont.; Joseph, Sydney, and Philip Phillips, all brothers of the groom; Shy Bass, David Levine, cousins of the bride; John Share, and Nathan Krupat. Jack Singer, brother of the bride, was junior usher. The synagogue was decorated with chrysanthemums, and carnations in various colors; gladioli, pom-poms, snapdragons, and the aisles were marked with candles in tall white candelabra, and white satin ribbon. There was choir music and "Because" was sung. Mrs. Singer received, in a black net gown over pink tissue, having a sweetheart neckline, a tight-fitted bodice, and skirts of net. She had a matching hat of black net over pink tissue, scattered with pink sequins, and a corsage of Tea roses. Mrs. Phillips wore a black lace gown over royal-blue taffeta, fashioned with a V-neckline, a tight-fitted bodice, and slim skirt; also a feathered royal-blue hat and a corsage of red roses. The bride and groom left on a wedding trip to Miami Beach, Florida, the former wearing a light-blue gabardine suit, with a horse-shoe neckline, and slim skirt; also a black velvet hat, matching accessories, and a mauve orchid corsage. Mrs. Phillip Dankner, sister of the groom, of Halifax, N. S.; Mr. and Mrs. L. Phillips, brother and sister-in-law of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. N. Stein, his cousins, all of Toronto, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. B. Linsky, uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. J. Insul and Mrs. H. Linsky, cousins of the bride, all of Chicago, Ill.; and Mrs. N. Price and daughter, Miss Roslyn Price, aunt and cousin of the groom, of New York, were wedding guests.

NOTED SCIENTIST IS FIRST FELLOW AT BRANDEIS U.

The appointment of Dr. Selman Waksman, whose scientific research was responsible for the discovery of streptomycin, as the first Fellow of Brandeis University was announced by George Alpert, Chairman of the University's Board of Trustees. Professor of Microbiology at Rutgers University, Dr. Waksman, one of the nation's foremost scientists, has been serving as Consultant in Science to Brandeis, aiding in the development of its School of Science.

Fellows of Brandeis will include men distinguished in the arts and sciences and prominent in the business and professional life of communities throughout the nation. Senator Herbert H. Lehman is honorary chairman of the Fellows, and Frank L. Weil, of New York, is chairman. Now in its fourth academic year, Brandeis University will graduate its first class of 101 young men and women in June of 1952. The University is located on a 167-acre campus near metropolitan Boston, at Waltham.

President Abram L. Sachar, of Brandeis University, issued a statement to clarify the University's athletic policy, in which he said: "Reports that Brandeis University will add materially to its football coaching staff for next season are completely without foundation. From the inception of the University, we were firm that varsity athletics here should be completely without major emphasis and would be relegated to a minor, albeit healthy, role in our total education program. Brandeis University is a new institution whose primary concern has been and will be the development of a University with the highest of academic standards. We cannot and will not develop an athletic program at the expense of our academic endeavors."

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH

The greatest show on earth just now is the industrial production of the Western nations.

Canada has a big role in the show. And Canada's primary textile industry, with the largest manufacturing employment, the largest payroll, and with factories well diversified throughout the smaller communities, is a star player in the Canadian show.

Dominion Textile has an important part in all this.

Plans To Mark 300th Year In U.S. Will Take In Cross Section Of Jewish Life

The following article is by Paul Tobenkin, of the New York Herald Tribune:

A committee to arrange for the nation-wide celebration in 1954 and 1955 of the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Jews in what is now the United States, will be expanded so that every group in Jewish life may participate, it was announced in New York by Ralph E. Samuel, chairman of the committee on organization.

The history of Jews in North America was shrouded in confusion until Samuel Oppenheim, lawyer and recording secretary of the American Jewish Historical Society, who died in 1928, prepared a work on the early history of the Jews in New York which was published by the Society in 1909.

Mr. Oppenheim's work, still the basic writing on the subject, was made available by Rabbi Isidore S. Meyer, the Society's librarian and editor of its publications, at his office at 3080 Broadway.

Many historians contend that the first Jews to see the new world were members of Columbus' crew. During the next 150 years individual Jews came to America with various groups of settlers or as traders. The first group to come and establish a community were twenty-three from Brazil who arrived at New Amsterdam early in September, 1654. Already in New Amsterdam was one Jew, Jacob Barsimson, who arrived August 22, 1654.

The group of twenty-three were Sephardic Jews who fled to Holland from Spain and Portugal during the days of the Spanish Inquisition. Large numbers of these Jews migrated to Brazil while others remained in Holland. In 1654 the Portuguese took Brazil from Holland but agreed to permit the Brazilian Jewish community of 600 persons to leave.

Sixteen ships carrying Jews left for Holland, but one, the St. Charles, with the twenty-three Jews aboard, was captured by a Spanish ship. The St. Charles and its passengers were rescued by a French ship and escorted to New Holland which was New Amsterdam.

New Amsterdam was a colony operated by the Dutch West India Company governed by Peter Stuyvesant with the assistance of a council. The religion of the community was Dutch Reformed, and Jews, along with Lutherans, Catholics, Quakers, Mennonists, English Independents and other sects, were not popular in the community.

Stuyvesant wrote to the parent company suggesting that because of their religion and their poverty (they had lost their wordly possessions on leaving Brazil) they be not permitted to remain. The Dutch West India Company overruled Stuyvesant, and ordered that Jews be permitted to remain provided that they took care of their own indigent.

The decision to permit Jews to remain was made by the company in part because of a petition by Jewish shareholders residing in Holland who noted that the Jews had been promised liberty and equality in Holland, and that both England and France permitted Jews to live and trade in certain of their colonies.

The following year, 1655, again over the opposition of Stuyvesant, the company ordered that Jews be permitted to worship in their own homes but not to establish synagogues.

Another incident occurred in 1655 which had a tremendous bearing on Jewish status in the new world. Jews had not been permitted to stand guard with other persons against possible attack by Indians but had been taxed instead. In 1655 two Jews, Isaac Israel and Benjamin Cardoso, received permission to travel as far as South (Delaware) River on trading missions despite the opposition of Stuyvesant. The following year Joseph d'Acosta also received such permission.

At first Jews were not permitted to buy real estate, operate retail stores or work as mechanics but eventually the Jews, arguing that they had these rights in Holland, obtained them. The group which in 1657 petitioned for burghers' certificates, which would enable them to operate businesses, consisted of Salvador Dandreda, Jacob Cohen Henriques, Abraham deLucena and Joseph d'Acosta.

By the time the British captured New Amsterdam in 1664 and changed its name to New York, the Jews had been integrated into the community. Eventually, under English rule, the first synagogue, Congregation Shearith Israel, was established. The same congregation, rich in Sephardic tradition, is now known as the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue at Central Park West and 70th St.

I. L. G. W. U. Official Gets Praise Of Dress Men

Union and business leaders in the dress industry paid tribute to Julius Hochman, vice president of the International Ladies Garment Union, A. F. L., and for twenty-five years general manager of its New York dress joint board, on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday.

Mr. Hochman, a member of the union since 1910 and an officer since 1916, was cited for his role in helping to stabilize the industry by preventing Communist infiltration into the union, says the New York Times. Speakers at the birthday luncheon held in the Astor Hotel described his part in the industry and how he helped to found the New York Fashion Institute.

David Dubinsky, president of the I. L. G. W. U., asserted that "the recognition we receive from employees and employers is in a large degree due to the ideals and unselfishness of Mr. Hochman." The industry's impartial chairman, Harry Uviller, described Mr. Hochman as a man who would never compromise with his moral standards.

Nat Boriskin, head of the United Popular Dress Contractors Association, the employing jobbers' organization, told how Mr. Hochman had played a major role in bringing the industry out of the chaos that existed in 1935. He helped, Mr. Boriskin said, in setting prices establishing employee benefit funds and deciding the hours of work.

Mr. Boriskin said "Mr. Hochman was a great factor in defeating Communism" in the industry by seeing to it that the workers "had enough to eat" so that Communism could not be sold to them. As an employer he pledged his "loyalty" to the union's joint board manager.

Mr. Hochman has been a recognized leader in resolving disputes affecting the 85,000 workers in the industry, in which there has been no strike in twenty years. He has helped to develop the techniques of collective bargaining that speakers described as an inspiration to other unions, according to the New York Times.

In accepting the tributes Mr. Hochman declared the greatest event in his life was the opportunity to come to the United States as an immigrant when he was 15 years old. His next most important landmark, he said, was helping to organize his shop "in the back of a saloon" in 1909.

CLASS IN COOKERY

CHOCOLATE NUT CRUNCH

Combine together two cups crushed vanilla wafer crumbs with one cup of chopped walnuts. Line the bottom of a nine-inch-square greased tin with about one-half of the crumb and nut mixture. For the dough, thoroughly cream one-half cup butter and gradually mix in one cup of confectioners sugar. Add three well-beaten egg yolks, and one and one-half one-ounce squares of unsweetened chocolate, melted. Then add one-half teaspoon of vanilla. Mix, and then fold in three egg whites, stiffly-beaten. Spread this over the crumb and nut mixture in tin; and top with remaining crumb and nut mixture. Chill in refrigerator overnight; and cut in squares.

58 Beloeil Avenue, Montreal.

ORANGE CHIFFON CAKE

one and one-eighth cups sifted cake flour three-quarters cup fine sugar one and one-half teaspoons baking powder
one-half teaspoon salt
one-quarter cup salad oil
two unbeaten egg yolks
one tablespoon grated orange rind
one-quarter cup orange juice two tablespoons water
one-quarter teaspoon cream of tartar
one-half cup egg whites

Pre-heat oven to 325 degrees. Sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl, and make deep depression in centre; fill centre with salad oil, the two egg yolks, rind, juice, and water, beat, and mix altogether with spoon until smooth. Pour egg whites into another mixing bowl, and sprinkle over them cream of tartar, then beat until very stiff peaks are formed. Gradually add egg yolk mixture to egg whites, stirring slowly and gently after each addition, but do not beat. Turn batter into ungreased tube tin, eight by three inches, and bake in pre-heated 325 degree oven from about fifty-five to sixty minutes. Remove, invert on cake rack, and allow to cool. For baking in square, eight-by-eight-inch ungreased pan, use 350-degree oven, and bake from thirty-five to forty minutes.

Orange Icing

one and one-half cups icing sugar juice of half an orange two egg whites

Combine ingredients, and beat well; spread on cake when cool.

Eagle Scout At 12, Boy Can Cook

Bernard M. Brodsky, twelve, of 117 E. 94th Street, Brooklyn, a Boy Scout of Troop 121, Brooklyn, N. Y., since July, 1950, has become one of the youngest Scouts ever to be certified as an Eagle Scout by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Boy Scout officials told the New York Herald Tribune that to qualify as Eagle Scout a boy must earn twenty-one merit badges, including prescribed ones for life saving, cooking, civics and bird study. The minimum time necessary to qualify for the Eagle Scout rank is one year, and work for the merit badges cannot be started before the candidate is eleven years' old. Officials said boys normally require at least two years to earn all twenty-one badges.

Bernie, a five-foot, brown-eyed boy with brown hair and a friendly smile, became a Cub Scout at the age of nine. He explained that he had wanted to become an Eagle Scout ever since. His father, a former assistant district commissioner for the Brooklyn Boy Scouts Council, and now the Scoutmaster of Troop 121, told Bernie much about Scouting long before he was old enough to become a Cub Scout.

"It was not so much the rank of Eagle Scout that I worked for," Bernie said. "It was the knowledge I had to have in order to get the different badges which made the Eagle Scout rank so important to me." As an example, he told of his efforts to earn the cooking badge which is awarded to those Scouts who can demonstrate ability to cook certain menus. Bernie's favorite recipe is what he calls "Chicken a la King—121 style."

"You take the different parts of a chicken and various kinds of raw vegetables, including potatoes, and wrap them all up in a big piece of tinfoil. Then you place it on an open fire and turn it over on the other side after fifteen minutes. After thirty minutes you have the best dinner you can think of," he said.

White Cane Week Stresses Care Of Eyes

Miss K. I. Thomas, of the Prevention of Blindness Department, The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, says: "White Cane Week, with the emphasis on the sightless, is a good time to think about our eyes. After all," she said, "half the blindness in Canada is preventable." She pointed out that the eye normally receives less attention than our less important faculties. "The hair, the finger nails, the press in our trousers, the cut of our dress, occupy our attention far more often than our eyes do. We strain our eyes with fine needle work, read in a bad light, arrange our lamps for show rather than service, and expect our vision to continue without treatment, glasses, or even ordinary bathing of them.

"Carelessness with playthings is often responsible for the loss of sight in childhood, and while the child suffers, the parents are somewhat to blame," Miss Thomas said. "Parents often permit their boys and girls to play with air guns, fire crackers, sling-shots, bows and arrows without sufficient training in how to handle them. Tragedy is frequently the result.

"Industrial accidents to the eyes are another cause of preventable blindness. Most companies are aware of the necessity to protect sight and provide safety goggles for the purpose, but in spite of this, there is carelessness. Employees fail to use them, and blindness too often results.

"We each have only one pair of eyes," Miss Thomas said. "It is shameful to lose their use through carelessness or indifference. Yet our files have hundreds of such cases, and every year C.N.I.B. registration grows. Blind people are doing wonderful things under C.N.I.B. guidance, but let us look after our vision while we have it, instead of adding to C.N.I.B.'s problems."

tified as one man a scholar who previously had been three fragments of a man, known variously as David, David ben Saadi and David ben Hajar. Dr. Abramson discovered that these were all really David ben Saadia ben Hajar, who lived in Spain toward the end of the eleventh century and wrote a book on the swearing-in process, long considered one of the more important works on that subject of Jewish law. This work, in print for four centuries, had been ascribed to two other authors.

These various treatises had not been known—or certainly not identified with their proper authors—since about 1100, Dr. Marx pointed out to the Herald Tribune, and represent an historical find of the first quality. "They will ultimately reveal much historical data on customs, manners and attitudes of the peoples of those times," he said.

Dr. Abramson was born near Bialystok in northern Poland, received a Talmudic education in that country with side journeys into medieval poetry, and in 1936 went to Palestine. On a fellowship at the Hebrew University there, he studied the poetry of Samuel Hanagid who lived in Granada, Spain, in the eleventh century, and the second of a two-volume edition of the poet's works, edited by Dr. Abramson, will be published in Hebrew this spring in Israel.

The Synagogue, Bulwark Of Jewish Life

"And he builded an altar there and called upon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tent there." (Genesis 26:25)

The story of altar building in Jewish history is as old as the life story of the patriarch Isaac. For it was the second patriarch who no sooner found a suitable place for settlement than he at once builded an altar for worship. This procedure of the patriarch symbolizes Jewish life. Wherever ten Jews gathered and sought a settlement they at once builded and founded a synagogue.

The synagogue as we know it, as a house of prayer and study, and community center, found its origin in Babylon. There in a strange land our people remembered the glory of the Temple in Jerusalem and in its place on foreign soil they created a synagogue patterned after the Holy Temple in Jerusalem. When the exiles returned from Babylon to Palestine, they brought with them the institution of the synagogue and throughout the Holy Land these miniature sanctuaries came into being even as these came into being throughout the Diaspora wherever Jews dwelt.

When the Temple fell again under the cruelty of Roman oppression in the year 70 of the common era and the Jew became the wanderer over the face of the earth, it was the synagogue that marched with our people. It was this institution that saved Jew and Judaism from annihilation and destruction. Synagogues came into being in China, in North Africa, in Spain, in Poland and in whatever corner of the globe our people found refuge. In time of prosperity and in the hour of persecution, the Jew found shelter in this "miniature sanctuary." The synagogue made of the Jewish people a religious community, a people of idealism, a people witnessing to the worship of the One God, the Father of all mankind.

Through the centuries the synagogue has served as a place of retreat for our people. Where else in modern life can we find refreshment of soul if not in God's house? Whither shall we go to satisfy our hunger for the higher values of life? Do we not tire of things and more things and more things and the possessions that so often possess us! In an age of tension and complexity we can only find assurance in the sanctuary. In an age when so much is given over to the worship of the material and the physical it is only in God's house that we can experience growth of soul.

We need this retreat whither we can go to unburden our grief for who is there without tears and sorrows and without trial and tribulation? It is in God's house that we can find the comfort and the assurance through communion with God, our Father. In God's house, in the synagogue, we can bring our joys and express gratitude to Him who is the source of all joy and happiness. In God's house we are reminded to count our blessings, that of health and the love of dear ones and friends. Yes, there are some joys that are too deep for display. These we keep within our own hearts and for these we come to God's house in the spirit of thanksgiving.

Not only has the synagogue been the place of retreat from the world outside, but it has ever been the "shul", the school, the training ground for life in the world. Here in this sacred institution there has ever been fostered the study of Torah for adults and not only for children. Alas, we have over emphasized the need for Jewish education for children, and have neglected to give emphasis to Jewish education for parents. The study of Torah is a life study.

The synagogue today must persuade its men and women to open again the holy books of our people and therein find strength and inspiration for the day. Unless men and women of Israel will return to their synagogues and study Torah, there is no chance for a vital and inspiring Jewish life. Though our children be given a linguistic preparation in Hebrew, they will never know the discipline and joy of Yiddishkeit without parental example in Jewish living and in Jewish loyalty. Indeed the synagogue is today, as in yesteryears, the custodian of the Jewish message for the world, the prophetic message of universalism, justice and brotherhood. Through our prayers and through the ritual of the synagogue, we are conditioned to enter in the combat against the evil which resides in the heart of man and against the evil forces which exist in the world outside.

We live in an age of many so-called Jewish organizations and societies, fraternal and otherwise, which would seem in their programme and efforts to try to supplant the synagogue! But all other Jewish organizations outside of the synagogue and the schools of Torah are but ephemeral. The institution that represents the symbol of Israel's immortality is only the synagogue, and no true Jew can remain outside of it. For when we remove the synagogue out of Jewish life all our philanthropic institutions and our social organizations have no Jewish significance.

Surely, not only to the Jew but to the non-Jewish world the synagogue is the symbol of all that is best and is noblest in the tradition of Israel. We see today, happily, a revival of synagogue life. More and more Jewish men and women are beginning to realize their responsibility toward the Jewish house of worship and study. In it they see the guarantee not only for Jewish survival but for Jewish revival. Now, with the establishment of the State of Israel, we shall all the more realize that the central institution of the Jewish community in the Diaspora is the synagogue. It is the force for good and the institution which is the source of spiritual influence in our Jewishness and in the world at large.

per cent would do their utmost to prevent it and that 30 per cent of those queried "would not like to see it happen but I would not do anything to prevent it." Twenty-three per cent more answered, "I do not care".

Ten per cent of those questioned said that they would like to see a party of the Nazi type try to come to power, but would not do anything for it, whereas 3 per cent said they would welcome it and do everything possible to support it. Fourteen per cent had no opinion.

The results of this second question, rather than the answer to the simplified "black or white" first question, seem to some western observers to reveal the basic weakness of German democracy.

These observers feel that it is not the 3 per cent for the neo-Nazism movement or the 20 per cent against that are indicative of progress toward democracy but those who proclaim their apathy and inaction, who would not do anything to prevent it, who do not care, who have no opinion.

Mr. McCloy found this apathy "alarming" and repeated, "there are not enough Germans alert to resist extremist movements." Much remains to be done, he added, before Germans and non-Germans can be confident that democracy is secure in Germany.

Probing German psychology, Mr. McCloy said no German should fear punishment for taking a stand against Communism or neo-Nazism. Nobody in Germany, he said, could ever repeat the plaint of the Hitler era, "I could do not anything about it; I was only an ordinary citizen."

The High Commissioner also urged students to accept the challenge of the present events in Europe to support the Schuman plan (for pooling the coal and steel resources of France, Germany and the Benelux countries), the European Army and other movements toward continental integration.

every evidence of racialism is reported on the front pages of newspapers."

Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the American Jewish Congress, said that while the Jews of the world would "appreciate the friendly attitude expressed by Prime Minister Winston Churchill" toward Israel in his address to Congress, Mr. Churchill's plea for peace in the Middle East should have been addressed not only to Israel but also—and primarily—to the Arab states."
